Winner Christian Reimering

> Christian Reimering is the great winner of the Cuetec Costa del Sol open, the final Euro tour stop in 2005. More than 12 years after his first top 3-finish and more than four years after his so far last one, the German now achieved his first Euro tour title at all. And that in a sovereign manner as he remained undefeated in the entire tournament process. With a clear 9-5 in the all-German title match against Thomas Engert he did not only crown his own performance. Reimering also prevented Engert's second tour victory in a row after the Dynamic Swiss Open played about one month prior to Spain. Together with Swiss Open runner-up Andreas Roschkowsky a further German made it to the semi-finals. And as in Switzerland before, it was British Imran Majid, who finally completed the round of the last four as the only non-German player.

▶ LIVE ON TV

> The Spanish television station TVE took up a LIVE transmission of the title match between Christian Reimering and Thomas Engert to its program. Besides the over 400 spectators on location, who provided for impressing scenery, millions at home could pursue the decision on television.

▶ NEW RECORD SET

> Almost 250 participants had announced for the Cuetec Costa del Sol Open and altogether 233 took up the competition then for the last Tour title of the year. Thus only a few months ago the participant record for a Euro tour, set up during the Dynamic Netherlands Open, was overbid now with seven players.
